Common Holiday Challenges

The holiday season is full of excitement, traditions, and celebrations. It's the time of year when we come together with family and friends to share food, exchange gifts, and create lasting memories. But alongside the joy and sparkle of the holidays come two big challenges: limited time and the temptation to overeat.

Challenge 1: Too Much To Do, Not Enough Time

Between holiday shopping, decorating the house, attending events, and preparing meals, the days can feel like they are disappearing before your eyes. This is especially true if you're the one hosting or preparing food for a big family gathering. The pressure to get everything done can turn what should be a joyful season into a stressful time.

Challenge 2: The Temptation to Overindulge

Holiday meals often come with an endless buffet of rich, delicious foods—everything from creamy mashed potatoes to decadent pies. While it's wonderful to indulge in these seasonal treats, it's easy to overeat, especially when you're surrounded by so many tempting options.

Time Saving Strategies

Meal Prep

Start with Pre-Prepped Ingredients

Pre-prepped ingredients can dramatically cut down time in the kitchen, without sacrificing flavor or nutrition. Here's how to make your holiday meal prep easier:

- Semi-Homemade Hacks: Use store-bought rotisserie chicken, pre-made pizza dough, or pre-chopped veggies to save on prep time. Customize these items with your favorite sauces and seasonings for a home-cooked feel with minimal effort.
- Frozen and Canned Staples: Keep frozen veggies, canned beans, and pre-cooked grains (like frozen quinoa or rice) on hand. These can be quickly turned into side dishes or added to soups and casseroles.

Batch Cooking for Efficiency

Batch cooking is one of the best time savers. By preparing large amounts of food at once, you'll have ready-made meals or ingredients that can be repurposed throughout the week.

- Cook Once, Eat Twice: Make extra rice, roasted veggies, or proteins that can be used in different meals. For example, grilled chicken can be added to salads, wraps, or pasta dishes.
- Prepare Basics in Bulk: Boil a dozen eggs, roast several sweet potatoes, or grill extra chicken breasts at the beginning of the week. These can be quickly used to assemble meals during busy holiday days.

Sheet Pan and One-Pot Meals

Cleaning up after cooking can be time-consuming, so focus on meals that require minimal dishes.

- Sheet Pan Dinners: Roast your proteins and vegetables on a single sheet pan. You can make an entire meal this way with little cleanup.
- One-Pot Meals: Stews, soups, and casseroles made in one pot (or an Instant Pot) save time both in cooking and cleaning. Throw all your ingredients in one dish, set it, and forget it!

Avoiding Overindulging

1

Arrive Prepared

Eat a light snack before heading to a holiday event to avoid overeating.

2

Stay Hydrated

Staying hydrated can reduce feelings of hunger, and mocktails are a festive, non-alcoholic alternative to holiday drinks. Drink water before and during meals to help manage your appetite.

3

Portion Control

Use Smaller Plates: This helps control portion sizes. Studies show that people eat less when using smaller dishes.

Prioritize Veggies and Proteins: Start your plate with salads, vegetables, and lean proteins. Once full, allow yourself smaller portions of your favorite treats.

4

Balance Healthy Options & Treats

It's okay to indulge in your favorite holiday goodies, but balance is key.

One-Plate Rule: Fill one plate with a variety of foods, but avoid second helpings. Savor each bite and focus on the experience, not just the food.

Holiday Celebrations Done Right

Charcuterie Board

A holiday charcuterie board is an elegant and easy-to-make centerpiece for any party, and it can be both festive and healthy.

How to Build a Balanced Charcuterie Board:

- Protein Options: Include lean meats like turkey slices, smoked salmon, or plant-based proteins like hummus or nut butter.
- Fruits and Veggies: Add color and nutrients with fresh fruits like grapes, figs, or pomegranate seeds, along with raw or roasted veggies.
- Cheese Choices: Offer a variety of cheeses, like aged cheddar, goat cheese, or a light ricotta spread.
- Whole-Grain Crackers or Nuts: Serve alongside whole-grain crackers, toasted nuts, or even homemade granola bites for crunch.

Hostess Gift Ideas

Show your appreciation with thoughtful, healthy gifts that stand out from the typical bottle of wine.

- Homemade Spice Mixes: Give the gift of flavor with custom spice blends that can be used long after the holidays.
- Gourmet Olive Oil or Vinegar: A high-quality bottle of olive oil or balsamic vinegar makes a thoughtful and practical gift.
- Holiday Power Bites: Homemade power bites made with oats, nut butter, and dark chocolate are a sweet, nutritious gift.
